European Intelligence.

CALAIS, April 3.

Affairs have ſuddenly taken an appearance of war in this place and along the coaſt. Three thouſand troops came in here laſt night, and this morning early 2000 more marched into Boulogne; and at Oſtend, Dunkirk, and in every place, troops are hourly flowing in.

HAGUE, April 1.

A part of the 7000 French troops coming into the pay and ſervice of this republic, have already arrived at Breda.

LEYDEN, March 31.

In theſe moments ſo critical to the peace and felicity of a great part of Europe, and in particular to the welfare of Batavia, we are tortured, beyond example, by continual alternations of hopes and fears. Theſe are, at length, ſucceeded by anxieties ſtill more lively. The hopes have vaniſhed which were derived from the countermanding of the orders to the French troops, on their march into the territory of the republic. Theſe troops have again received orders to advance. A part of them have already entered Breda. Theſe conſiſt of ſix ſquadrons of the late Eſterhazy huſſars, with demi-brigades of infantry. By the ſame advices, we learn, that the total number of the troops which France now ſends into Holland, is ſeven thouſand men. On the other hand the armament prepared by France at Helvoetſluys for Louiſiana, is now watched by a ſmall Engliſh ſquadron of two ſhips of the line and three frigates, which rides near the mouth of that port.

LONDON, April 4.

Rear Admiral Thornſborough ſailed yeſterday wirh the ſquadron under his command from the Downs. Orders were previouſly received at Dover and Deal, for pilots for the ſquadron, Their deſtination is ſaid to be to cruiſe off Goree. Our little ſquadron which is cruiſing off Helvoetſluys to watch the Louiſiana expedition, has been reinforced by a ſhip of the line and a frigate.

In Crawſand Bay a very ſtrong force will be aſſembled before the end of the week. A frigate is fitting [illegible] Portſmouth, with all poſſible expedition. It is to carry Lord Nelſon to take the command in the Mediteranean.

Such are the preparation which each country is making—they are certainly more ſerious than any we have hitherto had to announce.

On Saturday M. Paris arrived with advices from Vienna, M. Le Compte embarked at Dover yeſterday with diſpatches from General Andreoſſi. In the evening, Meſſrs. Ogilvy and Warrenden arrived at Dover; and ſo eager were they to embark with diſpatches for France, that they ſailed in an open boat.

April 5.

A letter from Roterdam, dated March 24, ſays —" Notwithſtanding the hoſtile demonſtration and preparations making in all the ports of England, the expedition at the mouth of the Meuſe for Louiſiana does not ſtand ſtill. The embarkation of French troops for that colony proceeds, and early in April they may be on board the tranſports; every thing indicates that the expedition will ſail immediately afterwards."

The following paſſage is from a letter of the 23d from Dort:—Yeſterday forty veſſels paſſed this town, having on board French troops from Boiſ-le-Duc for Helvetſluys. The number is between 1500 and 2000 men.

We received this morning the Paris papers to the 3d inſtant.

Upon the ſubject of peace or war, they do not afford us the ſlighteſt information; but another charge has been brought againſt us of breach of faith, in not having ſurrendered the iſle of Goree: and the Moniteur has publiſhed a long correſpondence between Col. Frazer, the Engliſh Governor, and the French Commandant of Senegal, who was ordered to take poſſeſſion of Goree.

GLASGOW, April 7.

We have not yet received any thing deciſive as to the pending negociations beween this country and France. The ultimatum of Great Britain, it is ſaid, was ſent off on Friday. Mr. Addington's friends now talk of the neceſſity of intro ducing Mr. Pitt again into the cabinet; Lord Grenville has gone on a viſit to him at Walmer Caſtle. Two ſmall ſquadrons ſailed from the Downs on Sunday, to cruiſe off Goree; and that off Helvoetſluys has been reinforced by a ſhip of the line and a frigate, to watch the Louiſiana expedition. A frigate is fitting out at Portſmouth to carry Lord Nelſon to the Mediterranean; and a ſtrong naval force will be aſſembled in Cawſand Bay before the end of the week.

Three per cent. Conſols are 62.

The Mercury, a Britiſh veſſel, lying at Rochefort, laden with 500 pipes of Brandy, was prevented from ſailing a few days ago, by a French man of war placing herſelf acroſs the mouth of the harbour. In the policy of inſurance, at Loyd's for the Mercury, a paragraph is introduced, mentioning theſe particulars.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.

Arrived, brigs Unity, Deane, Paſſamaquody; Suſannah, Donahue, Liverpool; Venus, Webb, St. Thomas; ſchrs. John, Oliphant, Richmond; Regulator, Weſtcott, N. Carolina; Lucy, Whitredge, Charleſton; Joſephus, Taylor, Georgetown, S. C. Harlequin, Franklin, Richmond; Patty, Newton, Norfolk.

YORK, (Penn.) May 10.

TO THE FARMERS.

The ingenious Timothy Kirk, who is well known for his ſkill in mechaniſm, has lately conſtructed a machine for thraſhing Clover Seed, that tends very much to leſſon manual labour. The machine may be ſeen in operation at Caleb Kirk's farm about two miles from this Borough. It will readily occur to every intelligent perſon, that a damp atmoſphere, will increaſe the difficulty of thraſhing. With this machine, however, a Man, a Boy and a Horſe will thraſh ONE HUNDRED BUSHELS of Clover Seed in a month. The Horſe's draught will not be greater, than is required for ſtirring fallowed ground. It is adjudged by thoſe who have ſeen the operation, that it will at leaſt ſave the labor of fifteen hands per day, from the common practice of thraſhing.

It is ſuppoſed that the machine will not coſt more than Twenty or Thirty Dollars, including the patent right. Hand mills on the ſame principle, will come conſiderably lower.

Mr. Kirk, who lives in this Borough, we underſtand, will give a fuller deſcription of this valuable machine, to any perſon deſiring it, by directing a line to him, poſt paid.

☞ The Printers throughout the United States, will no doubt oblige every Farmer, by giving publicity to the above.

BALTIMORE, May 23.

Arrived, ſhip Warren, Furlong, from Leghorn. Left it 8th April; touched Malaga 18th; left there 24th; paſſed Gibraltar 23 days ago. Ship Montezuma, Daſhiell, ſailed with the Warren, bound for this port; parted on the 14th April off Majorca. Left at Leghorn, ſhip Bulo, capt. Freeman, of Boſton, to ſail next day for Barcelona; and four others names unknown.

The three frigates and ſchooners under commodore Morris, left Malaga on the 16th April bound up the Streights. In lat. 36, long. 58, ſpoke ſhip Commerce, captain Thompſon, from Liverpool bouud to Baltimore, out 25 days on the 13th inſt.

Alſo, brig Shepardeſs, Robins, 10 days from Boſton.

Alſo, ſhip Venilia, Glover, 9 days from Boſton.

Alſo Engliſh brig Mary, from St. Johns, N. B. 13 days.

Brig Betſey and Peggy, Durkee, 8 days from Savannah.

FREDERICKTOWN, May 20.

Hail Storm.

Laſt Monday the 16th inſt. there happened the moſt tremendous Hail ſtorm accompanied with thunder and lightning, that ever was witneſſed within the memory of the oldeſt inhabitants of this place. The weather had been unuſually cold for the ſeaſon during the laſt 5 or 6 days of the preceding week and there were ſeveral ſevere froſts, that entirely deſtroyed the fruit; but on that day, it had ſuddenly become very ſultry and warm. The ſtorm advanced between three and four o'clock in a N. N. E. direction and laſted about twenty minutes, during which time the Hail poured down inceſſantly as thick as flakes of ſnow. It was uncommonly large and ſome of it meaſured three inches and an half in circumference. It did very conſiderable damage: The windows in a northerly expoſure were almoſt all broken to pieces. The Rye crops have been entirely deſtroyed wherever it extended. Kitchen gardens have not eſcaped the devaſtation and vegetation in general has ſuffered great injury. The hail fell with ſuch violence, as to leave marks on the roofs and planks, wherever it ſtruck and clattered like a volley of pebbles upon the doors and windows.

It has not been exactly aſcertained, how far the hail ſtorm extended its ravages; but there are certain accounts from the diſtance of 8 miles in a S. and S. W. direction, where it raged with equal violence as here. Towards E. and S. E. it did not reach more than two or three miles and towards the Weſt and N. W. it branched in varions directions, leaving a ſtripe of country, in ſome inſtances not more than a mile or two in extent, untouched. We are happy to learn, that the ſtate of the Wheat crops is ſuch, as not to have ſubjected them to the ſame fate as thoſe of Rye.

The ſcene was truly awful and terrific. The elements ſeemed to war in dreadful conflict, threatening ruin and deſtruction to all the works of human Art and every heart, in affrighted diſmay, throbbed aghaſt at this tremendous ſpectacle of Nature.

" At firſt, hear'd ſolemn o'er the verge of heaven,
" The tempeſt growls; but as it nearer comes,
" And rolls its awful burden on the wind,
" The lightnings flaſh a larger curve, and more
" The noiſe aſtounds: till over head a ſheet
" Of livid flame diſcloſes wide; then ſhuts,
" And opens wider; ſhuts and opens ſtill
" Expanſive, wrapping ether in a blaze.
" Follows the looſen'd aggravated roar
" Enlarging, deepening, mingling; peal on peal
" Cruſh'd horrible, convulſing heaven and earth.
" Down comes a deluge of ſonorous hail,
" Or prone deſcending rain. Wide rent, the clouds,
" Pour a whole flood; and yet, it's flame unquench'd,
" Th' unconquerable lightning ſtruggles through,
" Raged and fierce, or in red whirling balls
" And fires the mountains with redoubled rage.

The reign of ignorance and knavery.

Democracy is a painted ſepulchre: it is fair on the outſide but rottenneſs within and can only be ſupported by knavery and ignorance. By the latter, becauſe it cannot ſee into the abſurdity of its dogmas and the inconſiſtency of its principles and by inſidiouſly calling the people their ſovereigns and prating about liberty the rights of Man, knaves have contrived to keep up the deception, although all the while they were playing the part of the moſt unconſcionable tyrants. Democracy never could exiſt long, becauſe ignorance alone is its baſis and its miſled and ſtupid votaries muſt ſooner or later be awakened from their deluſive reveries by hearing and feeling the evil tendency of its meaſures. When ſuch weak and half-witted fellows as Randolph, Beau Dawſon, Sam Smith and Bob Wright take the lead in our national councils; while the information and talents of Griſwold, Bayard, Roſs and Morris remain unheeded and without influence; it may be emphatically ſaid, that the reign of ignorance and knavery has commenced in this our once happy land.

Nature vs Tom Paine.—Juſt after the dreadful hail ſtorm on Monday, we were not a little pleaſed to hear the following ſenſible reflection from a poor old black woman—" Ah, ſhe cried out, you better all take care of yourſelves. Some people ſay there's no God. God Almig

WEDNESDAY, MAY 25.

Extract of a letter from New York, to the Editor of the True American dated Saturday, (noon) May 21.

" The Britiſh Packet Lady Arabella, Porteous, from Falmouth, via Halifax and the ſhip Eagle, Riker, from Belfaſt, are juſt come up. They bring no later news than we have had already. The latter is in 35 days from Belfaſt."

THERE is in the novel of Humphry Clinker, an anecdote related of the famous player and wit, Mr. Quin. That extraordinary man is ſuppoſed to cenſure the cuſtom of admitting inferior orders of people into the ſociety of the poliſhed and elegant at Bath; and is anſwered by Young Melford, who defends it upon the principle that it tends to ameliorate ſociety, by affording the inferior claſs an opportunity of improving, by catching the manners of their ſuperiors. " No, Sir, (replied Quin) the inferior claſs are not improved—but they make the ſuperior much worſe by the commixture. They are no more improved than a jakes would be improved by throwing a plate of marmalade into it. The filth would be increaſed in quantity, without being diminiſhed in quality."

This ſtory is brought to our recollection by a late publication. " The letter of a Kentucky Member of Congreſs to his Conſtituents." This gentleman whom, becauſe he is conſtitutionally yclep'd Honorable, we are bound to think ought to be really ſo, has, by throwing the marmalade of his honor into the jakes of the democratic agents, aſſimilated ſo nearly to them in quality, that we ſhould have thought, and we are not far from thinking, that this letter was actually written by ſome of thoſe ingenious, and ingenuous gentlemen, thoſe Ingenioſos Hidalgos who reflect ſo much honor on the democratic preſſes in this country. It really bears evident marks of the arts of able editors. The thing is admirable in original; and though a copy may be good, the ſtory, bad as it is, would be better if it were new; more credit is therefore due to the original inventors, than to this Congreſſional Retailer. In ſhort, we are ſorry to ſee a Member of Congreſs covering the nakedneſs of his ſhivering nature, with ſome [illegible] the worſt and filthieſt rags of that rue [illegible] friperie and menſonges, the anti-federal preſs.

We can make all due allowances for a legiſlator of the woods, if he always lives in the woods, and, like wood philoſophers, never reads; but the gentleman in hand muſt have attended to Congreſs; and ſurely we are warranted in ſaying, that (if he ever read at all) he has read the leading anti federal prints. Of courſe, he muſt have known, that there was nothing at all new, or worthy the honor of his name, in that curious paragraph, which ſtates that " ſums of public money were retained in hand by the officers of the late adminiſtrations, and lent to the public at intereſt."

As we are led to believe, not only by this gentleman's palpable miſſtatement, but by our knowledge that few on that ſide will read any thing written on the other, that he will never look at this paper, we really wiſh that ſome cool, honeſt, intelligent neighbour of his, who wiſhes to ſee both ſides of a queſtion in order to judge of it right, and who, therefore, has read ſome of the Federal prints, would whiſper in his ear that this old, worn out tale has been refuted at leaſt one hundred times; and that it is not much to the gentleman's credit to be taking up with the leavings of the jacobin falſifiers. In Kentucky we know wine is dear, but a member of Congreſs ought to be above the meanneſs of making uſe of the heeltaps and rincings of bottles of the ſcum of the earth. We wiſh that good neighbour to tell that bright legiſlator, that if ſuch frauds had been committed they ought to have been puniſhed; that it was the duty of the preſent adminiſtration to bring them to light, not by the ſnake like procedure of calumnious inuendo, but by direct accuſation. If the charge is true, the preſent adminiſtration are guilty of miſpriſion of fraud, of a groſs wrong to the public, and indeed of a high miſdemeanor, in not bringing the guilty to juſtice. They have been two years in office; ſurely time enough to bring to juſtice, or at leaſt to impeach all public delinquents. If the charge is not true, then the Kentucky member is, by his own charge, thrown over the railing into the pit, along with the whole herd of jacobin falſifiers, who have ſo far outdone all precedent, as to have dumb foundered and lockjaw'd even their quandam proſelytes, and to have made themſelves almoſt as deſpiſed for their folly by the bad, as they were before abhorred for their wickedneſs by the virtuous.

(Charleſton Courier.)

Progreſs of truth.—What is democracy? A ſyſtem of falſehood. How has it prevailed? By the diſciplined ſpirit, the enterprizing, the hardy and inceſſant exertions of its followers. To what is democracy oppoſed? to thoſe real republican principles of Waſhington, known by the name of federaliſm. If democracy is falſehood, and it is oppoſed to federaliſm, then federaliſm muſt be a ſyſtem of truth: and ſhall it be denied that the ſame degree of zeal and pains which has made falſehood triumphant, if honeſtly employed in diſſeminating truth muſt neceſſarily in a reaſonable time raiſe up truth again on the ruins of falſehood, or Federaliſm on the ruins of democracy? Surely no:—corrupt and degenerate as men are, they have not yet arrived to ſuch a ſtate of baſeneſs as to love, vice or to follow it for its own ſake, when it leads to the certain deſtruction of all their intereſts and enjoyments. It follows then of courſe, from the natural order of things, that democracy, which is not only political wickedneſs, but a ſort of wickedneſs yielding no profit to the people whoſe liberties and happineſs it threatens, can not long reſiſt the weight of talents and character in the oppoſite ſcale, if its expoſure is only continued with vigorous induſtry and perſeverance. There is indeed no alternative between this mode of conduct and tame ſubmiſſion. The democrats will never be ſatisfied while the name of federaliſt exiſts; and, unleſs the federaliſts will quietly ſubmit to their own extinction, they muſt ſtrain every nerve to put down the great common nuiſance. They are in the ſitnation of a man meeting a highway robber; they muſt give up their all at once or reſolve to ſubdue. Their enemies will allow of no quiet medium, and no choice is left but that of ſervitude or empire. It is a vain and a very pernicious notion which ſome people entertain, that democracy is to be appeaſed by half way-conceſſions, that any moderation on our part ſhort of paſſive obedience can ever glut its appetite. Such people know nothing of the eſſential character of the ſyſtem they talk about, and their idle imagination ſerves only to deaden the active patrotiſm of their neighbors. Let us then never by words, by deeds or in thought countenance this notion.—Let us but be true to the high cauſe in which we are concerned, and it is as certain as the relation between cauſe and effect, that federaliſm muſt again ſucceed. That its fortitude has been put to ſevere trials we will grant; but moraliſts teach that without trials in this life human virtue can hardly ſhew itſelf: and ſhall we make a willing ſacrifice of our beloved country, becauſe it requires ſome trouble and ſtruggles to ſave it? Away with " ſuch a feeble temper."

Adverſe as the federal fortune has been there is yet no reaſon for deſpondency. Let it be remembered, that although the democrats have had all the patronage and the weapons of government in their hands for more than two years, the growth of their influence is evidently ſtopped, and that the people ſeem already to have ſaid unto them—" Thus far ſhall you go, and no farther"—This being the caſe, the increaſe of our adverſaries being arreſted, a very conſiderable point is gained: For the nature of democracy is to be ever reſtleſs, it is like the tide, it cannot remain ſtill, if it does not flow it muſt ebb, if not permitted to advance forward, as Paddy Cheetam ſays, it muſt inevitably 'advance backward.' It may indeed have an occaſional riſe, ſuch as we ſee for a moment accidentally produced in retreating waters; but we calculate with confidence hereafter on its continual depreſſion. The proſpect around us is encouraging, and with new hope ought to inſpire new activity. Even in the great camp of the foe, our friends are beginning to muſter ſtrong. In the laſt congreſs there was but one federal member from Virginia; and the general Aſſembly of that ſtate ſo laid off the diſtricts as they thought would exclude any more. Yet, in ſpite of all this, there are now four federaliſts from thence elected into Congreſs. In the City of N. York, where at the laſt conteſted election in 1801 the democrats elected their candidates for the legiſlature by a majority of 1483 they have now only a majority of 696, being 787 leſs than before; and where at that time they elected their Senator by a majority of 176, the federal candidate for the Senate has now a majority of 77, being an increaſe on the ſide of federaliſm and a falling off from democracy of 253 votes. In new England the other party confeſs themſelvs that the federaliſts are ſtronger than ever: And we hope before long that Maryland will follow the good example, will purge her councils, and retrieve her honor. In ſhort we fondly expect yet to ſee the day, when the faction who now bear ſway will be generally as much deteſted, ſcorned and execrated in this country as any ſet of demagogues ever were by a deceived, an injured and inſulted people.

Jeremiah Satterwhite,

COACH MAKER,

Still continues to carry on the buſineſs, in St. Aſaph ſtreet, oppoſite Edward Martin's Blackſmith Shop. He returns his ſincere thanks to the inhabitants of Alexandria and its vicinity, for the liberal encouragement he has met with, and hopes a continuance of their favors, as he will do every thing in his power to give general ſatisfaction.

He has now on hand a few handſome GIGS, nearly finiſhed, of choice materials, which he offers for ſale on moderate terms.——WANTED, two good wood workmen, a carriage maker and wheel right, to whom generous wages will be given.——Likewiſe, two boys, well recommended, to any part of the buſineſs, as he intends carrying it on in all its branches.——Wanted to purchaſe, oak timber for ſpokes, aſh timber (very tough) ſawed or in logs, ſome good poplar plank, for which the caſh will be given.
